ONE of the foremost architects of the country, a man who has been honored both in Europe and this country for his designing of beautiful homes, is the man who designs Bossert houses.

Every customer who purchases a home, whether it is a moderate priced Summer bungalow or a palatial palace, is anxious to have embodied in that home all of the art, beauty, and charm possible as well as the practical and the convenient arrangement of rooms together with solid, substantial construction. The expense, however, of engaging a world famous architect to design one small home is prohibitive unless the reproduction of that home is going to be duplicated many times over. All of the Bossert houses are designed by this famous architect and complete blue prints and specifications are furnished you without cost when you buy a Bossert house. One of the best examples of this is the Piping Rock which presents a picture of charm and beauty seldom equalled.

The living room is 9 x 18 feet, the outside door entering in the center of the front, while two bedrooms, each 9 x 12 feet, occupy the two wings having a bath and a kitchen between, each 6 x 9 feet. There is space for a fire place in the living room if desired.

The outside of the house is equally charming and is provided with pergolas in the squares formed by the wings which are accessible through the French windows at each end of the living room.
